CLOSED THURSDAY

DISTRICT CONVENTION HAS FINISHED ITS DELIBERATIONS.

CAPACITY FOR 1 IN 38

San Francisco Wickedest City if You Go by Seating Capacity of the Churches.

The district convention of the Christian churches which has been in session in this city since Tuesday, adjourned late Thursday afternoon. The meeting was a very successful one and a large attendance was present.

The officers elected Thursday afternoon for the ensuing year are:

Rev. C. M. Chilton, St. Joseph, president.

Baxter Walters, Lathrop, vice-president.

F. C. McCallon, Savannah, secretary.

W. C. Wyatt, St. Joseph, treasurer.

C. A. Lowe, St. Joseph, superintendent of missions.

The meeting place for next year's convention has not been decided upon. The matter is in the hands of the executive committee.

Wednesday afternoon's program was given over almost entirely to the C. W. B. M. Devotions were led by Mrs. J. D. Frank of Maryville. Report of auxiliaries was made by Mrs. B. F. Dougherty of Lathrop, who is the district secretary. Her report showed 66 societies with 1,696 members among the 240 churches in the district, and $4,167 raised for missions.

Mrs. T. W. Grafton of Kansas City, district president, gave an address on the C. W. B. M. motto, "Knowledge, Growth, Fulfillment."

Wednesday evening's devotional exercises were led by Baxter Walters of Lathrop. The First Christian choir led the singing, and the choir quartet, Mrs. F. P. Robinson, Miss Phyllis Sayler, W. E. Goforth and H. J. Becker, rendered an excellent number.

The address of Dr. I. N. McCash of Cincinnati followed. He was greeted by a large audience, and among them were many friends not members of the Christian church whom he had made during his pastorate in this city several years ago. Dr. McCash is secretary of the American Christian Missionary society and is now counted among the foremost men of the denomination. He complimented the convention in session and said that the work in this district was better organized for effective work than he had knowledge of. He spoke of the great need of mission work in our own country, and urged united effort on the part of all Christian people. He spoke of the need of churches throughout the country, and especially the need in the city. Of the 92,000,000 people in the United States 12,000,000 are Catholics and 23,000,000 belong to the Protestant churches. He said that if all of the people of New York City should desire to go to church to hear the gospel, only one in nine of that city's population could get within hearing distance of the preached word, one in seven in Chicago, one in four in Kansas City, and one in thirty-eight in San Francisco, the latter place being considered the wickedest city in the United States.

Dr. McCash's lecture was highly instructive and was delivered in a vigorous, sympathetic style for which he is noted. He complimented the Maryville church on the new boy that they had taken to raise in their young pastor, Rev. Claude J. Miller, and said: "If you are as patient and kind with him as you have been with the other boys you took into your pulpit, he may be able some time to accomplish good for himself and for you."

Rev. McCash, Dr. C. M. Chilton of St. Joseph and Dr. O. W. Lawrence of Decatur, Ill., began their first pastorate in Maryville, when they were in their early twenties, and all three take first rank in the Christian church denomination of this country.

Thursday morning a business session was held and reports of committees were read. An interesting feature was the round table on "District Work."

An address by E. W. Allen of Kansas City, western secretary of the Foreign Christian Missionary society, was given this morning.

Following are the names of additional delegates who resistered at the convention Wednesday afternoon:

O. G. Null, Mrs. W. S. Sayler and Miss Mabel Null of Pickering; A. F. Stitt, Burlington Junction; J. C. Pistole of Hopkins; Robert L. Finch, Grant City; I. N. McCash, Cincinnati; Mr. and Mrs. I. C. Roelofson, Barnard; E. W. Allen, Kansas City.

Measured Eight Feet From Tip to Tip —On Exhibition at Hopkins.

A large eagle measuring eight feet from tip to tip was killed by a Siam man one day this week and attracted a great deal of attention while on exhibition at Chaney's store, says the Hopkins Journal.

The man who killed the bird jokingly said it had carried off two of his children and was back for the old woman when he decided to put it out of business.

Many chickens in the neighborhood had been missing and there is no doubt but what the eagle had been carrying them away, as none have been missed since it was killed.

Pursued the Bride and Groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Roland H. Rees, who were married at 6:30 o'clock Wednesday evening at the home of the bride's parents, Dr. and Mrs. M. A. Gaugh of Burlington Junction, left the bride's home soon after the ceremony in an automobile for St. Joseph, in order to avoid the persistent attentions of a noisy charivari party that gathered at the Gaugh home during the serving of the wedding dinner. The revelers were determined to take Mr. Rees and his bride for an automobile ride, but by good planning on the part of the family, the bridal party had an hour's ride on the way to St. Joseph before their departure was discovered. Six automobile parties immediately started in pursuit. Mr. and Mrs. Rees left St. Joseph for a trip in the south. They will be at home at Burlington Junction on their return, where Mr. Rees is engaged in the lumber business. The wedding was attended by only immediate relatives of the bride and groom. Preceding the ceremony two vocal numbers, "For You" and "O, Promise Me," were given by Mr. Charles Gaugh of Maryville, a brother of the bride. The bridal party stood under an archway of chrysanthemums and ferns, to which large white wedding bells were suspended. All of the decorations in the dining room and in the serving were yellow and white. The table decorations were carnations, chrysanthemums and smilax and yellow and white satin ribbons. The bride is quite well known as a musician and is a graduate of the Maryville Conservatory of Music. Mr. Rees is a son of C. J. Rees, the well known retired hardware man of Burlington Junction.

GIANTS WON GAME.

Dodgers Lost in Postponed Battle Wednesday Night.

Standing of Teams.

	P.	W.	L.	Pr.ct
Tigers	9	6	3	.666
Dodgers	9	5	4	.555
Athletics	9	4	5	.444
Giants	9	4	5	.444
Dodgers	8	3	5	.375

The Dodgers were pushed farther down the percentage ladder Wednesday night when the Giants fell on them with a vengeance, and when the smoke of the battle cleared away the Dodgers found themselves at the short end of a 14 to 7 score. The Seymours, who opposed each other at center, reminded the spectators of that tragic "mellow-drama," "Brother Against Brother." The younger Seymour played by far the superior game and guarded his brother from making a field goal. Hanna played a very creditable game at guard, and promises to make a valuable man with more experience. The line-up of the Giant-Dodger game:

Giants—Taylor and Price, forwards; V. Seymour, center; Hanna and McDougal, guards.

Dodgers—Denny and Feris, forwards; H. Seymour, center; McGrew and Parman, guards.

Summary—Field goals, Denny 1, Taylor 1, Price 1, V. Seymour 2, McDougal 1. Free throws, Denny 2, H. Seymour 2, Taylor 2, V. Seymour 1.

One point was awarded each team.

In the second game the Athletics were very badly surprised in the strength of the Tigers, their opponents. The Tigers, without Captain Mitchell, who is out of the game with a sprained wrist, looked to be very easy, but the game finally culminated in a tie, after the Tigers had led most of the time. In the extra minutes of play the Athletics managed to slip in a field goal and win the game. Score, 15 to 12. This is the third game which the Athletics have played in that has ended in a tie score, and the first that they have won in the extra minutes of play. The line-up:

Athletics—Allen and Strader, forwards; Perrin, center; Cook and Simpson, guards.

Tigers—Carpenter and Holmes, forwards; R. Miller, center; Scott and Nixon, guards.

Summary—Field goals, Carpenter 2, Miller 1, Nixon 1, Strader 2, Perrin 4. Free throws, Carpenter 3, Perrin 2.

One point was awarded each team.

JONES GETS CERTIFICATE.

North Side Druggist Successful in State Examination.

Warren Jones, proprietor of the Koch pharmacy of this city, passed the examination given by the state board of pharmacy, and is now a registered pharmacist. The examination was held in St. Louis, October 9, and the result was announced yesterday.

J. W. Shroyer of this city went to Fairfax a few days ago. He started home Wednesday, and when five miles out of Fairfax a break occurred in his automobile. He was compelled to abandon the car and send to Kansas City for repairs.

Mrs. A. Dragoo, who underwent a surgical operation at St. Francis hospital Wednesday, is improving nicely. The operation was performed by Drs. Wallis.

ANOTHER MARYVILLE MAN SUCCESSFUL IN ROSEBUD DRAWING.

TWO CLEARMONT MEN WIN

Samuel E. Taylor and Bert E. Reynolds Among Those Drawn Out Wednesday.

Another Maryville man was successful in the drawing at Gregory, S. D., Wednesday in the Rosebud reservation—Harry Mulholland, who drew No. 4,940.

Samuel E. Taylor of Clearmont was also a winner Wednesday, his number being 4,705. Bert R. Reynolds, also of Clearmont, drew a claim, his number being 4,388.

Two other winners were J. A. Kuhn of Stanberry, No. 2,317, and J. E. Jenkins of Bolckow, who drew No. 2,544.

Five thousand names had been drawn up to Wednesday night. Nebraska and South Dakota lead in the number of winners, with Kansas running third. The record of the registration promises to be unique in that it has been conducted without disorder.

The remaining three thousand names will be drawn tomorrow. In speaking of the number of people whom he believes will file in proportion to the number of winners, Judge Witten said that not more than 35 per cent would appear. That would give those holding high numbers a much better chance to get a farm.

"So many people register for the purpose of trying their luck and never expect to file," the judge said.

NEW PASTORS AT HOPKINS.

Changes Made in Pulpits Take Place at the Same Time.

Hopkins has four churches and each each now has a new pastor. Rev. A. P. Walton of Sharpsburg, Ia., will be installed as pastor of the Presbyterian church this evening with elaborate services. Rev. T. C. Taylor comes there from Oregon, Mo., as pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church and delivered his initial sermon last Sunday. Rev. Henry Baker of Des Moines, Ia., has been elected as pastor of the Christian church and will deliver his initial sermon next Sunday morning, while Rev. D. W. Griffith of Hambaugh, Ia., has just become pastor of the Baptist church.

Demonstration at Normal.

Miss Jessie Mutz of the advanced domestic science class at the Normal showed in a demonstration in class Wednesday morning the efficiency acquired by the advanced pupils of that department. Miss Mutz very cleverly demonstrated the food value of sour milk by actually churning the milk and making butter, smearcase and whey, and at the same time she explained the process. A number of visitors were present and were served with the products of the demonstration.

These demonstrations are a part of the course and are required of each advanced student.

Efficiency in Advertising.

One principle of successful advertising as practiced by department store ad writers and other specialists on publicity, is to give definite descriptions of the goods ordered. When a merchant uses such phrases as "The best is the cheapest" and "Biggest assortment and lowest prices" he convinces no one. The reader argues that anyone can use these catch words and they prove nothing.

The most successful advertising is not apt to sound like an attempt to persuade. It is more a statement of facts. The reader is given material by which he forms his own mental picture of the goods.

For this purpose try definite and detailed though very brief description. Get manufacturers of your lines to give you some definite idea of how the goods are put together, so that you can give some real reasons why goods are superior.

Pick out some special bargains, describe them as above indicated, value you believe them to have. Don't bother about flowery language. What the buyer wants is cold facts. "Reason why" advertising is what brings the buyer around.

The Follies of Worry.

You can't dare while you despair.

Don't meet trouble half way—make it race after you.

There are obstacles in all roads and they are only insurmountable to cowards.

No one ever got to the top without a tussle. It isn't so much the quality of a man's mind as the quantity of his nerve that brings him through.

So long as ruin is only a possibility there is always a chance to escape.

TO PROTECT FRENCH TONGUE

League Is Formed to Keep Foreign Words and Deformities Out of the Language.

A league has been formed for the protection of the French language. The president of this league is Adolphe Aderer, a well-known dramatic critic, who is its founder and promoter. He has given it a name which at the same time comprehends a program, "The Friends of the French Language."

This is to be a national society for the defence of French genius and of the French language from foreign words, from useless neologism and all the deformities which now menace it.

The new league is distinguished from its predecessors in that it will not only be composed of literary men and professors who pretend to a monopoly of pure language but the committee will also include besides men of letters and of the universities some well known artists, some great merchants, a great advocate and a great man of science. The committee will vigorously protest against the foreign words that are increasing in our streets, in our shops, in our places of amusement, in the catalogues of our great stores, in our plays, in all our worldly relations, in the language of commerce, of industry, of agriculture. —Le Cri de Paris.

KNEW NAME AND ADDRESS

Three-Year-Old Wanderer Had Them Down Pat and Was Not Afraid.

Arrived at the mature age of three, Casper H. Miller, Jr., of 10,623 Tacoma avenue, has taken to exploring the neighborhood. Sometimes he strays. But since everybody, along with his sisters, his cousins and his aunts, knows the young gentleman, he is never allowed to get out of sight. That is, almost never.

The other day was one of those exceptional days when all hands were busy and the youngster wandered away, fetching up at McVeigh's the dairyman, in Hathaway avenue. He didn't seem a bit afraid, either.

"What's your name, little man?" asked Mr. McVeigh.

"Casper Hart Miller," was the reply. Only, he pronounced it "Hartmiller," McVeigh hunted in vain through the city directory and the telephone book for any Hartmiller.

"Where do you live, Casper?" was the next inquiry.

"Eddy 391X," was the immediate reply, and with the aid of the chief operator of the Eddy exchange the street and number were quickly fixed.

The name Hartmiller looks so good to the boy's father that he contemplates adopting it for family use.—Cleveland Leader.

Wouldn't Take Foy's Money.

Eddie Foy, the actor, lives near New Rochelle and owns a motor car. The other day the comedian was in a hurry to get to New York to attend a rehearsal. The car was in front of his home. He gave the crank a twist. Something broke in the engine and the machine was put out of commission.

The next best thing for Mr. Foy to do was to catch a train. A car was coming along the road and he hailed it. There was no one in it but the driver. He readily consented to take the comedian to the station. When they arrived there Mr. Foy offered the man a dollar bill.

"No, thank you," replied the car's driver. "I don't want your money, Mr. Foy."

The comedian thought that the man was certainly a queer chauffeur. "Oh, you know me, then?" he asked.

"Yes, by reputation," replied the other. "And here's my card."

On the card, Mr. Foy says, was engraved "W. H. Vanderbilt."—New York Telegraph.

Association of Ideas.

Mr. Baker, who claims to be at home in all that pertains to good cooking, was sitting on the hotel piazza one evening lately, explaining to his friends. Lawyer Thompson and Colonel Robb, the manner of preparing the latest fad in delicacies—the snail—for the breakfast table.

Thompson was interested, but Robb was quiet and seemed drowsy. Suddenly he brightened up.

"I saw three of them playing marbles in front of the postoffice this morning," he remarked.

"Why, what's the matter with you, colonel?" asker Mr. Barker. "I'm talking about snails."

"Well, I'm talking about messenger boys," said the colonel. "Go on with your conversation."

Too Hopeful.

Andrew B. Humphrey, secretary of the American Peace and Arbitration league, was discussing in New York the universal peace movement. "This movement," he said, "has lately made gigantic strides, but, of course, we mustn't expect too much of it. We mustn't, like Peleg Shucks, expect to see universal peace come in our time.

"Peleg Shucks was thinking about buying a gun. 'I guess, though,' he said thoughtfully, one night at the general store, 'I guess I'll wait awhile afore purchasin'.'

"'Wot's yer idee in waitin', Peleg?' asked the storekeeper.

"'Wall, ye see,' said Peleg, 'arter all them European nations take up this Carnegie-Taft arbitration and disarmament contract, guns, by geehtalmighty, is goin' to get tarnation cheap.'"

INSECTS HARMFUL TO MAN

Most of Them Are Worse Than Useless and Should Be Killed at Sight.

Our instinct to kill insects at sight is perfectly sound, writes Dr. Woods Hutchinson. Out of the quarter of a million species now known to science, a mere handful are even remotely helpful to man, and most of these only by their power of living upon other and more dangerous insects. On the other hand, thousands of species are activeiy hostile to man, to his food plants and to his domestic animals. Whole tribes have been swept out of existence by the attack of insects carrying bacilli—as within the last two decades, in central Africa, by the dread "sleeping sickness" carried by the tsetse fly. Whole nations have been weakened and crippled and whole civilizations retarded by another insect-borne disease, malaria.

Indeed, recent investigators have advanced the theory that the historic decline of both Greece and Rome was largely due to the ravages of this disease, brought into Europe by armies returning from wars in Asia and Africa. It may yet come, when we see things in their true perspective, that the warriors of civilized nations will turn from slaughtering one another to battling against our insect enemies.

Turn every battery of artillery in the world against that angel of the pestilence, the common house fly, and in ten years he would be exterminated, root and branch. With him would go half of our 50,000 deaths in the United States every year from the summer diseases of children, two-thirds of our dysenteries and cholera morbus, and one-fourth of our typhoid, with not a little of our tuberculosis, our tetanus and our boils and blood poisonings.

PERSECUTION OF THE GIPSY

Forty-five Executed in Hungary in 1728 on the Charge of Being Cannibals.

The persecution of Gypsies recalls the old belief that the Gypsies were cannibals, and the methods by which judicial confirmation of the belief was sometimes obtained. In 1728 45 Hungarian Gypsies were executed on this charge. First racked until they confessed to murder, they were taken to the place where their victims were supposed to be buried and racked again. No bodies were discovered. Therefore they confessed to eating them, and were duly executed. Joseph II. sent a commission down to investigate the case later, and the entire innocence of the Gypsies was proved, but history does not say what happened to the witnesses for the prosecution.

Gypsies are still more or less "persecuted," though in our milder modern sense of the word. And no wonder. A couple of years ago it was stated on official authority that in Hungary most of the serious crimes—murders, kidnaping and robberies—were committed by Gypsies, and very few of the offenders were caught. Gypsies are mighty difficult customers to tackle. When it was proposed in France that all nomads should have identity cards, to be checked at each stopping place, one of them said to a Matin reporter: "But I can't read, and I can't write, and I don't know how old I am, nor where I was born, and I don't remember the names of the places where my children were born, nor their ages exactly. We don't bother ourselves about such things." What can you do with people so astutely ignorant?

The Conscience of Clara.

One day when Mrs. Bell was making a neighborly call on Mrs. Ellis, the latter, in the presence of her caller, discharged her colored maid, whose obstreperousness could be borne with no longer.

A few weeks later Mrs. Bell again called on Mrs. Ellis, and to her surprise her hostess informed her that Clara was back.

The services of the maid were required by her mistress, who pressed the button in the drawing room. There was, however, no response. Finally Mrs. Ellis went out and waited on herself. While she was gone, Clara, who was acquainted with Mrs. Bell, having served in her family also, put her head in at the door and explained:

"Mis' Bell, I heard Mis' Ellis all the time, but do you recollec' the las' time you was here she discharged me, an' said she'd never have me again? I said I'd never come back, too. But here I am, so we bofe lied. That's why I'se ashamed to come in. I was ashamed for bofe of us!"

Salt on French Roads.

As a general rule, the roads in and around French towns are tarred at the commencement of the summer in order to abate the dust nuisance. It has, however, been found that tar, although excellent in the case of macadamized roads, is of little or no value where car lines exist and paved street crossings intersect the roads in every direction, as tarring cannot be carried out on stones.

The authorities, basing their action on the well-known hygrometrical properties of common salt, have made a test of its value in laying the dust. Twenty yards of roadway have been sprinkled liberally with salt and then watered freely. If the results are satisfactory, salt will be used throughout the town of Havre, it being impossible to tar the majority of the streets, as they are paved with rough stone blocks.

PEIGNOIR AS CHURCH GOWN

Beatrice Grimshaw's South Sea Island Laundress Couldn't Resist Temptation of the Garment.

It would be hard to find a spot where the subject of dress does not sway the feminine mind. To the world at large its observance causes either a great deal of pleasure or a good store of amusement. In the category of amusement may be placed the proceedings of the dusky belles described by Beatrice Grimshaw in her book, "In the Strange South Seas."

A lace-trimmed garment of mine, usually worn at night under the shelter of sheets and quilts, went to a Sunday morning church as a best dress in full daylight, on the person of the laundress intrusted with my wash. The funny side was so conspicuous that she never got the reproof she deserved.

A certain flower toque, made of poppies—a bloom unknown in the Pacific—first drove the women of the island half-distracted with excitement, then led 36 native ladies to appear simultaneously at a dance wearing excellent copies of my Paris model, done in double scarlet hibiscus from the bush.

A wedding, from which, unfortunately, I was absent, furnished the finest display of native dress that took place that year. The bride wore 14 silk dresses, not all at once, but one after another, changing her dress again and again during the reception, until the white spectators were fairly giddy.—Youth's Companion.

Jefferson Haynes, the negro janitor of the apartment house in which Dr. Knabe lived, was taken to the police headquarters to be questioned as to his whereabouts at different hours during the night and whether he saw any one about the Knabe apartment other than Dr. Knabe.

After several hours questioning he was released.

CHEAP LUNCHES FOR SCHOOLS

Board of Education at St. Louis Will Extend New Service to all Schools.

St. Louis, Oct. 25.—Pupils of four public schools, served for the first time with two and one-half cent luncheons provided by the board of education, seemed so well satisfied with the food and the arrangements made for serving it that the board will extend the service to all city schools. Each of the following sold for two and one-half cents:

Bowl of noodle soup and four crackers. ... smaller and smaller.

"It's a pity, isn't it?"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

For Nifty Dressers.

To the man with a small income economy is essential. Why throw away your old socks because the heels and toes are worn out? Cut off the legs, and (after washing of course) sew them to the tops of your new pair of socks. Do the same when the lower pair is worn out, and so on as long as possible. A man who becomes attached to his hosiery may, by this simple process, in time become the owner of a handsome union suit, without any extra expense.

When you cut off your beard save your whiskers. Shoulders are to be wider, and human hair, especially when curly, makes the best possible padding. Or keep friendly with your barber and get him to save his clippings for you.

Avoid aniline dyes when you wish to recolor your light spring suit for fall wear. Vegetable dyes are much softer and more delicate. Almost any of the leading brands of canned soups will give a rich, mellow tone to worsted fabrics. Tomato, mock turtle and gumbo will be the prevailing hues next season. Use hot water for cotton goods and milk for woolens. Use no salt.—"A Haberdasher," in Leslie's.

Queer Face Facts.

"Why do you photographers always photograph the left side of the face by preference?"

"Because it's the best looking," was the prompt reply. "The left side of the face is always the more regular, and it always shows least the marks of time.

"But," he continued, "if you want to bring out the real character of a face photograph the right side. There nature sets her print. There the lines are bold and unmistakable. There every defect, no less than every excellence, is stamped deep.

"The left side, where everything is softened down, for beauty. The right side, where everything is well rubbed in, for character. Those are the portrait artist's two chief rules."

Retaining Self-Respect.

There is a beautiful harmony between the good of the state and the moral freedom and dignity of the individual. Were these interests in any case discordant, were an individual ever called to serve his country by acts debasing his own mind, he ought not to waver for a moment as to the good which he should prefer. His soul he must never stain or enslave. From poverty, pain, the rack, the gibbet, he should not recoil; but for no good of others ought he to part with self-control or violate the inward law. —W. E. Channing.

MR. FARMER:

Did the recent long, dry spell hit you pretty hard—cut down your crop yield and consequently your income for the year? Will you be satisfied to continue taking chances on a good rain happening along just about the time it is badly needed?

Out in the Big Horn Basin of Wyoming the farmer of irrigated lands raised the usual "bumper" crop. His income was not reduced and he knew no worries, because "he controlled the rain" and applied the water as his crops needed it.

Don't you see the tremendous advantage he had? Wouldn't it pay you to go out with me on one of those Homeseekers' Excursions, see the country; talk to some of the farmers and get their views?

Because of my inability to persuade you to do this, it may be my fault if you don't go, but it will be your loss.

MEXICO STILL IN TURMOIL

Chamber of Deputies Demands Full Report of Insurrection.

SPECIAL SESSION IS CALLED

Alarm in Capital Over Advance of Zapata—Fifty Bodies Unburied In Streets of Milpa Alta.

Mexico City, Oct. 26—Astounded by the realization that the forces of Zapata had entered the federal district, sacked a town and then stood off a detachment of the federal army, the chamber of deputies has demanded that the acting minister of war and the minister of the interior appear before that body and render full reports regarding the insurrection and measures taken for its suppression.

To consider the action of the deputies, the president called a special session of the cabinet and it was agreed the deputies should be given details of the campaign against the rebels. Not in many weeks has there been so tumultuous a session of the chamber.

Every paper in the city published long accounts of the battle of Milpa Alta, in which the Zapataists had routed the federals, killing and wounding more than half of the soldiers sent against them, and the alarm in the capital was not allayed by statements calculated to minimize the defeat.

Late in the afternoon came a report, subsequently confirmed, that another encounter between federals and rebels had occurred, this time within two miles of Xochimilco. This news increased the tension in the chamber, whose galleries had by that time been filled to their capacity.

Alta is in the hands of the government troops. Moving northward through Morelos is Gen. Caso Lopez, at the head of a considerable force. The Zapatistas who raided the federal district town and whose exact number not even the government knows, are scattered in small bands throughout the surrounding hills.

At Milpa Alta representatives of the White Cross and the Red Cross attended the wounded. In the streets of the little town some 50 bodies remain unburied.

News from Morelos, stronghold of the rebels, is that the dash into the federal district has aroused the spirits of the rebels, who have renewed with greater energy their looting. A number of haciendas and villages have been occupied and dispatches from Cuautla say the occupation of Chietla is imminent.

FARMERS TALK ABOUT SEED CORN

Institute at Soldier, Kansas, Holds Grain and Stock Judging Contest Also.

Soldier, Kan., Oct. 26.—The farmers' institute held a successful meeting here. The morning session was devoted to talks on seed corn selection and special benefits of the silo. George S. Hine of the state agricultural college was present and gave some helpful talks on these topics. The afternoon meeting commenced with a grain and stock judging contest. The business meeting which followed resulted in the re-election of all the officers, James Hall, president; S. R. Fairbanks, vice-president, W. H. Capsey, secretary and treasurer. Alfalfa was the first item of interest discussed. The road question was also touched upon by several local speakers. Dr. J. H. Burt of the agricultural college talked on the common diseases of farm animals. There was an unusually large number of exhibits of corn and the quality was excellent. The exhibits of wheat, oats, Kaffir corn and cowpeas were all good.

LIGHT AND AIR FOR POLITICS

Woodrow Wilson Urges Wider Use of Public Schools.

AS COMMON MEETING PLACES

Spoke on the "Need of Citizenship Organization" Before Conference on Civil and Social Development.

Madison Wis. Oct. 26.—"You know, everyone knows, that political changes of great importance are impending in this country," said Gov. Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey in an address here at the opening session of the National Conference on Civic and Social Development. "The changes are impending because the people are discussing their own problems preparatory to solving those problems for themselves."

Gov. Wilson's address was on "The Need of Citizenship Organization," and this subject he rested upon the need of using schoolhouses as centers of education for all the people, as common meeting places of recreation, of amusement, of discussion of social and political questions. He advocated the use of schools, "which, as they belong to the people should be used by the people for every legitimate purpose."

"The use of the school houses as social and civic centers," said Gov. Wilson, "is one of the forces in the breaking up of that old secretive management which has taken the place of popular government. I see in this movement for common meeting places for a common life a restoration of the genius of the American people to create, to build up, to construct, to meet new needs and emergencies as they arrive.

"Society rejuvenates itself from the bottom, rarely from the top. The American people are not guided by blind impulse. They are a people who think and whose thought and instincts are for fairness and light. The treatment needed by our modern politics is the treatment we give tuberculosis—light and air.

"I challenge the promoters of special interests," said Gov. Wilson, "not as malevolent, but as ignorant. When a man gives half a lifetime to a special business he is disqualified by ignorance to counsel what is best for society or for a city, state or nation.

"Not a few of our social and political difficulties arise out of the lack of a common understanding, out of a genuine ignorance on the part of one class or set of interests of the point of view and objects of another class or set of interests. Nothing can cure this, and mutual comprehension cannot be brought about except by intimate intercourse, by conference, by sharing a common life."

On the platform with Gov. Wilson were President Van Hise of Wisconsin university, Chief Justice Winslow of Wisconsin, Gov. Stubbs, Chancellor Strong and William Allen White of Kansas; Dean Reber of the Wisconsin university extension department and Dr. Josiah Strong, president of the Social Center association of America.

BEING FAT IS UNNECESSARY.

A Woman Offers Many Methods of Growing Thin.

"Women have been gaining in weight during the summer. A study of Fifth avenue of an afternoon will show this," said a woman who practices physical culture. "Perhaps the most important cause of this is the mental atitude of the women. They are willing to gain a little in weight, for they carried the matter of getting thin too far, and, being willing to gain something, they have gained too much.

"Other causes arise from the fashions. Among them can be mentioned the following:

"Sitting in a motor car makes women stout.

"The pretty shoes that are the vogue help to increase one's weight because it is impossible to walk in them.

"Hobble skirts encourage the coming of the pounds, and even if one doesn't wear a hobble skirt one wears skirts too narrow for comfortable walking.

"Afternoon teas put on flesh. It is true the English women drink tea and eat bread and butter and keep slim, but they take long walks, rain or shine, and they don't hamper themselves with shopping bags or umbrellas.

Another encourager of flesh is the short waist which, with its straight skirt, conceals the fact that a woman is stout. It makes a woman feel that she can afford to have full hips and so she eats a little more and exercises a little less.

"But by far the greater factor in the general increase in weight is the mental attitude. Last spring the women were reducing so strenuously that they impaired their health. Then they decided that it was better to be a little plumper and to have better health. As a result they began to take ice cream sodas in the middle of the day, between meals, and to indulge in afternoon naps. The result was immediately apparent in the added pounds.

"Reducing the weight is difficult for the reason that one looks at it as a great stunt which is next to the impossible, but really it is not so hard. A good way to effect it is to follow the reduction code as it is written out for the English court women. They are these:

"Begin today.

"Make your next meal light and drink nothing at all with it.

"Take a glass of hot water one hour before your dinner or your luncheon. Then don't drink again until two hours after you've eaten.

"Buy a bedroom scales. Weigh yourself night and morning. Keep a card tacked on the wall and make notes on it daily.

"Unless you eat a big dinner you will be lighter in the morning than you were when you went to bed.

"Once a week have a reduction banquet. Take nothing but hot tea and crackers. Let this be your dinner. You will not die of hunger before morning and you will waken feeling lighter and better.

"Walk one hour each day. Never mind how far you walk, but keep going for one hour. Walk half an hour going from your home. Then turn and take the other half hour to return.

"Never walk for walking's sake. It is a very trying thing to do. Make an errand for yourself. Stop marketing by phone and go personally. Do all your household errands on foot.

"The Russian women, who are proud of their white skins, have a massage which is made out of limes and soap. It sounds heroic. They cut a lime, rub it on some good toilet soap, and with this rather vigorous sponge they massage themselves. The result is a lather which they take off with hot salt and water. It may be that all skins would not stand this, but it works in St. Petersburg, where they boast that fat is not to be found in good society.

"Reduction banquets are very smart. At one there were no guests under normal. The menu was olives, clams, breast of chicken, baked potatoes and salad, with coffee minus sugar as a windup.

"There is a new German reduction exercise, the pumphandle waltz. It would not do for drawing room use, but it can be tried in the gymnasium along with the other unconventional exercises. You can wear a tight skirt for it if you prefer; for the pumphandle is an up and down step, not a swinging one.

"A believer in the new thought cult has a theory that your body obeys your mind. You say, 'I'm getting thin! I'm getting thin!' And behold you actually do get thin.

"I have tried it on myself and it worked well. At dinner time I said:

"I am getting thin, but I must not eat. I am not hungry, so why should I put food in my stomach?'

"I repeated this and I got thinner each day. For by this formula I managed to go without a meal each day. I don't know how it would have worked at all three meals, but it went well at night. I find that it is easier to go without dinner than without breakfast. Very few persons can omit luncheon.

"One of my patrons came back from Europe this fall with an increase of twenty pounds. For this woman I gave the Arden treatment. This consists of a very rigorous diet. I put her on one prune for breakfast with a big cup of strong coffee. I told her that at Arden they had been known to chew a prune twenty minutes, and it wasn't a rubber prune either.

"For dinner I told her to take chopped meat and nothing else, but all she wanted of it, and for supper some green salad without dressing. The woman who doesn't get thin on this in ten days is one who prefers to stay fat."—New York Sun.

Popular Books.

There are two books, and two books only, of their particular kind, which ran close to "Jessica's First Prayer" in the race for popularity. These two are—can you guess now? Well, they are "A Peep Behind the Scenes" and "Christy's Old Organ." Yes, of course. How easy to remember—afterward. But neither of these, popular as they were, reached the enormous sale which came in answer to "Jessica's First Prayer."—London Chronicle.

Leaving "Ring" When Cleaning.

When removing spots from woolen or silk material first brush the dust from the garment, then place the material to be cleaned over a bag made of cheesecloth filled with powdered magnesia, then rub well with a rag saturatde with galosine. The magnesia absorbs the gasoline, thus preventing the "ring."—Harper's Bazar.

DR. KNABE'S DEATH STILL A MYSTERY

No Weapon Found and Police Believe She Was Murdered.

LET ASSASSIN INTO HER ROOM

Character Was Unblemished—Suicide Theory Held by Many Because of Her Indebtedness.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 26.—"If Dr. Helene Knabe was murdered, as appears, I am satisfied she was murdered by a person with whom she was acquainted and that she voluntarily let this person into her apartment. The theory of suicide still will not let itself be neglected."

With this statement Capt. William Holtz, chief of the detective department, summed up the result of the day's activity of the police into the circumstances of the death of Dr. Helene Knabe, former state bacteriologist, whose throat was slashed while she lay on her bed sometime Monday night.

"I cannot see anything but murder in this case," said Dr. C. O. Durham, coroner of the county. "The instrument of death was not found and circumstances indicating suicide appear to me negligible."

Capt. Holtz declared he did not intend to reflect upon the character of Dr. Knabe in saying he believed she knew her murderer, if she was murdered.

"Dr. Knabe's reputation was unblemished," said he, "and she lectured to young women and men on the necessity of social purity as well as on physical culture and hygiene. But there are a number of possible motives for her murder. It is certain that robbery was not one of them and physicians have decided that personal attack was not committed.

Two cigars were found in the apartment where Dr. Knabe lived alone. Miss McPherson told detectives she distinctly remembered Dr. Knabe had brought the cigars home from a banquet of a medical society, as a joke.

"There is this to be said for the suicide theory," said Capt. Holtz, after the examination of Miss Knabe and Miss McPherson, "Dr. Knabe was a trained gymnast and she could have put up a powerful resistance to an assailant. There were no signs of a struggle on the bed or in the bedroom.

"This does not account for the knife being missing, but there have been many cases in which friends of a suicide have sought, by removing evidence, to prevent the fact of a suicide appearing. And many of Dr. Knabe's friends were in the flat before the police arrived. We shall continue to question Dr. Knabe's friends and acquaintances in the hope of finding a lead. So far we have not discovered a motive for murder and there is only a slight one upon which to base the suicide theory."

PRESIDENT TO CUT THE CHEESE

Exhibit at Dairy Show, Largest Ever Made, to Be Sampled by Mr. Taft.

Chicago, Oct. 26.—One of the most interesting attractions in the National Dairy show, which opened here today, is the largest cheese ever manufactured. It is big enough to make 200,000 cheese sandwiches, and on Monday President Taft will cut and sample this immense product of the dairy. Mr. Taft also will deliver an address at the show, on agriculture and conservation.

The big cheese weighs six tons and stands higher than a man, and its cost was nearly $6,000. To manufacture it 1,200 model dairies did the milking of 8,000 cows at the same time, and the 32 cheese factories which manufactured the curd had to follow the same process to make the curd uniform. Other attractions at the show are numerous and include all sorts of dairy machinery and equipment and an excellent display of dairy cattle.

Marzyck is Found Again.

Peoria, Ill., Oct. 26.—Following an investigation begun Monday night, the Peoria police have become convinced that Charles Marzyck, the ex-convict suspected of the murder of the Showman family at Ellsworth, Kan., is being protected by ex-convicts in a rendezvous on the river bank south of this city.

After Two-Cent Fare Laws.

Chicago, Oct. 26.—Railroads connected with the Central Passenger association are planning to attack the 2-cent fare laws in Ohio, Indiana and Illinois. The decision of Judge Sanborn in the Minnesota rate case, it is understood, will be made the basis of the attack.

Topeka May Lose Aero Club.

Atchison, Kan., Oct. 26.—Atchison may take from Topeka the headquarters of the Western Aero association. The balloonmen are having considerable trouble in Topeka because of objections of property owners near the field from which flights are made.

CAPITAL FULL OF POLITICS

INTERESTED IN APPROACHING ELECTIONS.

Results in Scattered Sections Watched Because of Bearing on National Results.

Washington, Oct. 26.—With the arrival of the advance guard of congressmen for the winter season and the return from vacations of administration officials, attention at the capital is centering on the off-year elections. Interest is keen because of the bearing which results in scattered sections this fall may have on the national elections next year.

In two weeks from now governors and legislators will be chosen in a few of the states and there will be some congressional and local elections of decided importance. Governors are to be elected in Kentucky, Maryland, Massachusetts, Mississippi, Rhode Island and Virginia. A red-hot municipal campaign is in progress in Philadelphia, which carries some features of national import. In New York City, where judicial positions are the principal offices at stake, matters have taken on more than usual off-year concern because of the intensified bitterness of the old fight against Tammany under the rule of "Boss" Murphy and the professed return to the Democratic fold of W. R. Hearst, who has declared war on Murphy "from the inside."

The Massachusetts election is involved more than any other with the national campaign of 1912. Eugene N. Foss, whose success constituted the straw that pointed the way to Democratic control of the House of Representatives when he was elected to fill a vacancy from a Republican district several months before the 1910 landslide, and who subsequently left his seat in Congress to become the Democratic governor of the old Bay State, is a candidate for re-election. His Republican opponent is the present lieutenant governor, Louis A. Frothingham.

DUE TO ANARCHY, SAYS BURNS

Detective Believes Unions Had Little or Nothing to Do With Times Explosion.

New York, Oct. 26.—Saying he was tired of being lied about, traduced, maligned and misrepresented, Detective William J. Burns, who caused the arrest of J. J. and J. B. McNamara, the latter of whom is now on trial in Los Angeles on the charge of dynamiting the plant of Harrison Gray Otis' paper, the Los Angeles Times, for the first time made clear his belief that labor unions were little, if at all, concerned in the alleged actions of the accused men. According to Burns, anarchy, not labor unionism, has been the impelling motive.

Burns was at the Grand Central Station waiting for a train for the West. He had just received news that Eugene V. Debs had accused him of hounding and continually following the trail of the many times candidate for President on the Socialist ticket.

"Hounding him? Nonsense!" Burns cried. "He knows my movements as well as heknows his own, and he is aware of the fact that I only came here to make an address at Columbia University. Hounding him? Only the other day he called for volunteers to assassinate me, and announced that he had received in repy the names of two hundred who were willing to try.

SAYS HE HELPED CLEAN WICHITA

Sheriff Says "Band Wagon" Methods Are What Spoiled Some of the Raids.

Wichita, Kan., Oct. 26.—Sheriff Millhaubt has denied the statement made in Kansas City by C. W. Trickett that he had not given the state officers his hearty co-operation in making raids on joints in this city.

"I always gave the governor and his men every assistance I could in making raids," the sheriff said. "Their band wagon methods were such as to attract the attention of the joint-keepers and they surmised their raids were contemplated and planted their liquor."

Would Seat Contestants.

Jefferson City, Mo., Oct. 26.—In an argument before the supreme court in support of his demand to see the poll books in the state contests in order to determine how certain voters voted, Judge William C. Marshall suggested that the supreme court should throw out all of the votes cast in St. Louis for both parties at the election in 1910. If this should be done, the contestants, Gant, Case and Timmonds, would be seated.

The Giants Win.

New York, Oct. 26.—The Giants won the fifth world's championship game in the tenth inning after apparently distanced with the score 4 to 2 in the last half of the ninth they tied the score and won out in the next inning. Batteries: Marquard, Ames and Meyers; Coombs and Lapp. Score: Philadelphia, 4-9-2; New York, 3-7-1.

Rodgers' Machine Smashed.

Spofford, Tex., Oct. 26.—The biplane of C. P. Rodgers, the coast-to-coast aviator, was wrecked near here as the aviator attempted to take the air, before he left the ground. Rodgers was uninjured.

THIS LADY'S GOOD APPETITE

Mrs. Hansen, in a Letter From Mobile, Tells How She Gained It.

Mobile, Ala.—"I suffered for seven years, with womanly trouble," writes Mrs. Sigurd Hansen in a letter from this city. "I felt weak and always had a headache and was always going to the doctor. At last I was operated on, and felt better, but soon I had the same trouble.

My husband asked me to try Cardui. I felt better after the first bottle, and now, I have a good appetite and sleep well. I feel fine, and the doctor tells me I am looking better than he ever saw me."

If you are sick and miserable, and suffer from any of the pains due to womanly trouble—try Cardui.

Cardui is successful because it is composed of ingredients that have been found to act curatively on the womanly constitution.

For more than fifty years, it has been used by women of all ages, with great success. Try it. Your druggist sells it.

DAILY DEMOCRAT FORUM

(Successor to the Maryville Republican)

VOLUME 2. MARYVILLE, MISSOURI, THURSDAY, OCT. 26, 1911. NO. 124.

CLOSED THURSDAY

DISTRICT CONVENTION HAS FINISHED ITS DELIBERATIONS.

CAPACITY FOR 1 IN 38

San Francisco Wickedest City if You Go by Seating Capacity of the Churches.

The district convention of the Christian churches which has been in session in this city since Tuesday, adjourned late Thursday afternoon. The meeting was a very successful one and a large attendance was present.

The officers elected Thursday afternoon for the ensuing year are:

Rev. C. M. Chilton, St. Joseph, president.

Baxter Walters, Lathrop, vice-president.

F. C. McCallon, Savannah, secretary.

W. C. Wyatt, St. Joseph, treasurer.

C. A. Lowe, St. Joseph, superintendent of missions.

The meeting place for next year's convention has not been decided upon. The matter is in the hands of the executive committee.

Wednesday afternoon's program was given over almost entirely to the C. W. B. M. Devotions were led by Mrs. J. D. Frank of Maryville. Report of auxiliaries was made by Mrs. B. F. Dougherty of Lathrop, who is the district secretary. Her report showed 66 societies with 1,696 members among the 240 churches in the district, and $4,167 raised for missions.

Mrs. T. W. Grafton of Kansas City, district president, gave an address on the C. W. B. M. motto, "Knowledge, Growth, Fulfillment."

Wednesday evening's devotional exercises were led by Baxter Walters of Lathrop. The First Christian choir led the singing, and the choir quartet, Mrs. F. P. Robinson, Miss Phyllis Sayler, W. E. Goforth and H. J. Becker, rendered an excellent number.

The address of Dr. I. N. McCash of Cincinnati followed. He was greeted by a large audience, and among them were many friends not members of the Christian church whom he had made during his pastorate in this city several years ago. Dr. McCash is secretary of the American Christian Missionary society and is now counted among the foremost men of the denomination. He complimented the convention in session and said that the work in this district was better organized for effective work than he had knowledge of. He spoke of the great need of mission work in our own country, and urged united effort on the part of all Christian people. He spoke of the need of churches throughout the country, and especially the need in the city. Of the 92,000,000 people in the United States 12,000,000 are Catholics and 23,000,000 belong to the Protestant churches. He said that if all of the people of New York City should desire to go to church to hear the gospel, only one in nine of that city's population could get within hearing distance of the preached word, one in seven in Chicago, one in four in Kansas City, and one in thirty-eight in San Francisco, the latter place being considered the wickedest city in the United States.

Dr. McCash's lecture was highly instructive and was delivered in a vigorous, sympathetic style for which he is noted. He complimented the Maryville church on the new boy that they had taken to raise in their young pastor, Rev. Claude J. Miller, and said: "If you are as patient and kind with him as you have been with the other boys you took into your pulpit, he may be able some time to accomplish good for himself and for you."

Rev. McCash, Dr. C. M. Chilton of St. Joseph and Dr. O. W. Lawrence of Decatur, Ill., began their first pastorate in Maryville, when they were in their early twenties, and all three take first rank in the Christian church denomination of this country.

Thursday morning a business session was held and reports of committees were read. An interesting feature was the round table on "District Work."

An address by E. W. Allen of Kansas City, western secretary of the Foreign Christian Missionary society, was given this morning.

Following are the names of additional delegates who resistered at the convention Wednesday afternoon:

O. G. Null, Mrs. W. S. Sayler and Miss Mabel Null of Pickering; A. F. Stitt, Burlington Junction; J. C. Pistole of Hopkins; Robert L. Finch, Grant City; I. N. McCash, Cincinnati; Mr. and Mrs. I. C. Roelofson, Barnard; E. W. Allen, Kansas City.

He was a man of many personal charms and his friends were limited only by his acquaintances. He is survived by his wife and two sons, the oldest son being a druggist in Kansas City, Kan.

KILLED AN EAGLE.

Measured Eight Feet From Tip to Tip —On Exhibition at Hopkins.

A large eagle measuring eight feet from tip to tip was killed by a Siam man one day this week and attracted a great deal of attention while on exhibition at Chaney's store, says the Hopkins Journal.

The man who killed the bird jokingly said it had carried off two of his children and was back for the old woman when he decided to put it out of business.

Many chickens in the neighborhood had been missing and there is no doubt but what the eagle had been carrying them away, as none have been missed since it was killed.

"The use of the school houses as social and civic centers," said Gov. Wilson, "is one of the forces in the breaking up of that old secretive management which has taken the place of popular government. I see in this movement for common meeting places for a common life a restoration of the genius of the American people to create, to build up, to construct, to meet new needs and emergencies as they arrive.

Gaugh of Burlington Junction, left the bride's home soon after the ceremony in an automobile for St. Joseph, in order to avoid the persistent attentions of a noisy charivari party that gathered at the Gaugh home during the serving of the wedding dinner. The revelers were determined to take Mr. Rees and his bride for an automobile ride, but by good planning on the part of the family, the bridal party had an hour's ride on the way to St. Joseph before their departure was discovered. Six automobile parties immediately started in pursuit. Mr. and Mrs. Rees left St. Joseph for a trip in the south. They will be at home at Burlington Junction on their return, where Mr. Rees is engaged in the lumber business. The wedding was attended by only immediate relatives of the bride and groom. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Lane Douglass of Carrollton, Mo., formerly of Burlington Junction. Preceding the ceremony two vocal numbers, "For You" and "O, Promise Me," were given by Mr. Charles Gaugh of Maryville, a brother of the bride. Mendelssohn's wedding march was played by a sister of the bride, Mrs. C. E. Walker of Burlington Junction. The bridal party stood under an archway of chrysanthemums and ferns, to which large white wedding bells were suspended. All of the decorations in the dining room and in the serving were yellow and white. The table decorations were carnations, chrysanthemums and smilax and yellow and white satin ribbons. The bride is quite well known as a musician and is a graduate of the Maryville Conservatory of Music. Mr. Rees is a son of C. J. Rees, the well known retired hardware man of Burlington Junction.

GIANTS WON GAME.

Dodgers Lost in Postponed Battle Wednesday Night.

Standing of Teams.

	P.	W.	L.	Pr.ct
Tigers	9	6	3	.666
Dodgers	9	5	4	.555
Athletics	9	4	5	.444
Giants	9	4	5	.444
Dodgers	8	3	5	.375

The Dodgers were pushed farther down the percentage ladder Wednesday night when the Giants fell on them with a vengeance, and when the smoke of the battle cleared away the Dodgers found themselves at the short end of a 14 to 7 score. The Seymours, who opposed each other at center, reminded the spectators of that tragic "mellow-drama," "Brother Against Brother." The younger Seymour played by far the superior game and guarded his brother from making a field goal. Hanna played a very creditable game at guard, and promises to make a valuable man with more experience. The line-up of the Giant-Dodger game:

Giants—Taylor and Price, forwards; V. Seymour, center; Hanna and McDougal, guards.

Dodgers—Denny and Feris, forwards; H. Seymour, center; McGrew and Parman, guards.

Summary—Field goals, Denny 1, Taylor 1, Price 1, V. Seymour 2, McDougal 1. Free throws, Denny 2, H. Seymour 2, Taylor 2, V. Seymour 1.

One point was awarded each team.

In the second game the Athletics were very badly surprised in the strength of the Tigers, their opponents. The Tigers, without Captain Mitchell, who is out of the game with a sprained wrist, looked to be very easy, but the game finally culminated in a tie, after the Tigers had led most of the time. In the extra minutes of play the Athletics managed to slip in a field goal and win the game. Score, 15 to 12. This is the third game which the Athletics have played in that has ended in a tie score, and the first that they have won in the extra minutes of play. The line-up:

Athletics—Allen and Strader, forwards; Perrin, center; Cook and Simpson, guards.

Tigers—Carpenter and Holmes, forwards; R. Miller, center; Scott and Nixon, guards.

Summary—Field goals, Carpenter 2, Miller 1, Nixon 1, Strader 2, Perrin 4. Free throws, Carpenter 3, Perrin 2.

One point was awarded each team.

JONES GETS CERTIFICATE.

North Side Druggist Successful in State Examination.

Warren Jones, proprietor of the Koch pharmacy of this city, passed the examination given by the state board of pharmacy, and is now a registered pharmacist. The examination was held in St. Louis, October 9, and the result was announced yesterday.

J. W. Shroyer of this city went to Fairfax a few days ago. He started home Wednesday, and when five miles out of Fairfax a break occurred in his automobile. He was compelled to abandon the car and send to Kansas City for repairs.

Mrs. A. Dragoo, who underwent a surgical operation at St. Francis hospital Wednesday, is improving nicely. The operation was performed by Drs. Wallis.

ANOTHER MARYVILLE MAN SUCCESSFUL IN ROSEBUD DRAWING.

TWO CLEARMONT MEN WIN

Samuel E. Taylor and Bert E. Reynolds Among Those Drawn Out Wednesday.

Another Maryville man was successful in the drawing at Gregory, S. D., Wednesday in the Rosebud reservation—Harry Mulholland, who drew No. 4,940.

Samuel E. Taylor of Clearmont was also a winner Wednesday, his number being 4,705. Bert R. Reynolds, also of Clearmont, drew a claim, his number being 4,388.

Two other winners were J. A. Kuhn of Stanberry, No. 2,317, and J. E. Jenkins of Bolckow, who drew No. 2,544.

Five thousand names had been drawn up to Wednesday night. Nebraska and South Dakota lead in the number of winners, with Kansas running third. The record of the registration promises to be unique in that it has been conducted without disorder.

The remaining three thousand names will be drawn tomorrow. In speaking of the number of people whom he believes will file in proportion to the number of winners, Judge Witten said that not more than 35 per cent would appear. That would give those holding high numbers a much better chance to get a farm.

"So many people register for the purpose of trying their luck and never expect to file," the judge said.

NEW PASTORS AT HOPKINS.

Changes Made in Pulpits Take Place at the Same Time.

Hopkins has four churches and each each now has a new pastor. Rev. A. P. Walton of Sharpsburg, Ia., will be installed as pastor of the Presbyterian church this evening with elaborate services. Rev. T. C. Taylor comes there from Oregon, Mo., as pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church and delivered his initial sermon last Sunday. Rev. Henry Baker of Des Moines, Ia., has been elected as pastor of the Christian church and will deliver his initial sermon next Sunday morning, while Rev. D. W. Griffith of Hambaugh, Ia., has just become pastor of the Baptist church.

Demonstration at Normal.

Miss Jessie Mutz of the advanced domestic science class at the Normal showed in a demonstration in class Wednesday morning the efficiency acquired by the advanced pupils of that department. Miss Mutz very cleverly demonstrated the food value of sour milk by actually churning the milk and making butter, smearcase and whey, and at the same time she explained the process. A number of visitors were present and were served with the products of the demonstration.

These demonstrations are a part of the course and are required of each advanced student.

Efficiency in Advertising.

One principle of successful advertising as practiced by department store ad writers and other specialists on publicity, is to give definite descriptions of the goods ordered. When a merchant uses such phrases as "The best is the cheapest" and "Biggest assortment and lowest prices" he convinces no one. The reader argues that anyone can use these catch words and they prove nothing.

The most successful advertising is not apt to sound like an attempt to persuade. It is more a statement of facts. The reader is given material by which he forms his own mental picture of the goods.

For this purpose try definite and detailed though very brief description. Get manufacturers of your lines to give you some definite idea of how the goods are put together, so that you can give some real reasons why goods are superior.

Pick out some special bargains, describe them as above indicated, value you believe them to have. Don't bother about flowery language. What the buyer wants is cold facts. "Reason why" advertising is what brings the buyer around.

The Follies of Worry.

The same brain can't at the same time dwell on work and worry.

You can't dare while you despair.

Don't meet trouble half way—make it race after you.

There are obstacles in all roads and they are only insurmountable to cowards.

No one ever got to the top without a tussle. It isn't so much the quality of a man's mind as the quantity of his nerve that brings him through.

So long as ruin is only a possibility there is always a chance to escape.

Get out of the fright habit and into the fight habit.

Many a man has missed a picnic because he was certain a cloudy sky meant rain.—Woman's World.

TO PROTECT FRENCH TONGUE

League Is Formed to Keep Foreign Words and Deformities Out of the Language.

A league has been formed for the protection of the French language. The president of this league is Adolphe Aderer, a well-known dramatic critic, who is its founder and promoter. He has given it a name which at the same time comprehends a program, "The Friends of the French Language."

This is to be a national society for the defence of French genius and of the French language from foreign words, from useless neologism and all the deformities which now menace it.

The new league is distinguished from its predecessors in that it will not only be composed of literary men and professors who pretend to a monopoly of pure language but the committee will also include besides men of letters and of the universities some well known artists, some great merchants, a great advocate and a great man of science. The committee will vigorously protest against the foreign words that are increasing in our streets, in our shops, in our places of amusement, in the catalogues of our great stores, in our plays, in all our worldly relations, in the language of commerce, of industry, of agriculture. —Le Cri de Paris.

KNEW NAME AND ADDRESS

Three-Year-Old Wanderer Had Them Down Pat and Was Not Afraid.

Arrived at the mature age of three, Casper H. Miller, Jr., of 10,623 Tacoma avenue, has taken to exploring the neighborhood. Sometimes he strays. But since everybody, along with his sisters, his cousins and his aunts, knows the young gentleman, he is never allowed to get out of sight. That is, almost never.

The other day was one of those exceptional days when all hands were busy and the youngster wandered away, fetching up at McVeigh's the dairyman, in Hathaway avenue. He didn't seem a bit afraid, either.

"What's your name, little man?" asked Mr. McVeigh.

"Casper Hart Miller," was the reply. Only, he pronounced it "Hartmiller," McVeigh hunted in vain through the city directory and the telephone book for any Hartmiller.

"Where do you live, Casper?" was the next inquiry.

"Eddy 391X," was the immediate reply, and with the aid of the chief operator of the Eddy exchange the street and number were quickly fixed.

The name Hartmiller looks so good to the boy's father that he contemplates adopting it for family use.—Cleveland Leader.

Wouldn't Take Foy's Money.

Eddie Foy, the actor, lives near New Rochelle and owns a motor car. The other day the comedian was in a hurry to get to New York to attend a rehearsal. The car was in front of his home. He gave the crank a twist. Something broke in the engine and the machine was put out of commission.

The next best thing for Mr. Foy to do was to catch a train. A car was coming along the road and he hailed it. There was no one in it but the driver. He readily consented to take the comedian to the station. When they arrived there Mr. Foy offered the man a dollar bill.

"No, thank you," replied the car's driver. "I don't want your money, Mr. Foy."

The comedian thought that the man was certainly a queer chauffeur. "Oh, you know me, then?" he asked.

"Yes, by reputation," replied the other. "And here's my card."

On the card, Mr. Foy says, was engraved "W. H. Vanderbilt."—New York Telegraph.

Association of Ideas.

Mr. Baker, who claims to be at home in all that pertains to good cooking, was sitting on the hotel piazza one evening lately, explaining to his friends. Lawyer Thompson and Colonel Robb, the manner of preparing the latest fad in delicacies—the snail—for the breakfast table.

Thompson was interested, but Robb was quiet and seemed drowsy. Suddenly he brightened up.

"I saw three of them playing marbles in front of the postoffice this morning," he remarked.

"Why, what's the matter with you, colonel?" asker Mr. Barker. "I'm talking about snails."

"Well, I'm talking about messenger boys," said the colonel. "Go on with your conversation."

Too Hopeful.

Andrew B. Humphrey, secretary of the American Peace and Arbitration league, was discussing in New York the universal peace movement. "This movement," he said, "has lately made gigantic strides, but, of course, we mustn't expect too much of it. We mustn't, like Peleg Shucks, expect to see universal peace come in our time.

"Peleg Shucks was thinking about buying a gun. 'I guess, though,' he said thoughtfully, one night at the general store, 'I guess I'll wait awhile afore purchasin'.'

"'Wot's yer idee in waitin', Peleg?' asked the storekeeper.

"'Wall, ye see,' said Peleg, 'arter all them European nations take up this Carnegie-Taft arbitration and disarmament contract, guns, by goshtalmighty, is goin' to get tarnation cheap.'"

INSECTS HARMFUL TO MAN

Most of Them Are Worse Than Useless and Should Be Killed at Sight.

Our instinct to kill insects at sight is perfectly sound, writes Dr. Woods Hutchinson. Out of the quarter of a million species now known to science, a mere handful are even remotely helpful to man, and most of these only by their power of living upon other and more dangerous insects. On the other hand, thousands of species are actively hostile to man, to his food plants and to his domestic animals. Whole tribes have been swept out of existence by the attack of insects carrying bacilli—as within the last two decades, in central Africa, by the dread "sleeping sickness" carried by the tsetse fly. Whole nations have been weakened and crippled and whole civilizations retarded by another insect-borne disease, malaria.

Indeed, recent investigators have advanced the theory that the historic decline of both Greece and Rome was largely due to the ravages of this disease, brought into Europe by armies returning from wars in Asia and Africa. It may yet come, when we see things in their true perspective, that the warriors of civilized nations will turn from slaughtering one another to battling against our insect enemies.

Turn every battery of artillery in the world against that angel of the pestilence, the common house fly, and in ten years he would be exterminated, root and branch. With him would go half of our 50,000 deaths in the United States every year from the summer diseases of children, two-thirds of our dysenteries and cholera morbus, and one-fourth of our typhoid, with not a little of our tuberculosis, our tetanus and our boils and blood poisonings.

PERSECUTION OF THE GIPSY

Forty-five Executed in Hungary in 1728 on the Charge of Being Cannibals.

The persecution of Gypsies recalls the old belief that the Gypsies were cannibals, and the methods by which judicial confirmation of the belief was sometimes obtained. In 1728 45 Hungarian Gypsies were executed on this charge. First racked until they confessed to murder, they were taken to the place where their victims were supposed to be buried and racked again. No bodies were discovered. Therefore they confessed to eating them, and were duly executed. Joseph II. sent a commission down to investigate the case later, and the entire innocence of the Gypsies was proved, but history does not say what happened to the witnesses for the prosecution.

Gypsies are still more or less "persecuted," though in our milder modern sense of the word. And no wonder. A couple of years ago it was stated on official authority that in Hungary most of the serious crimes—murders, kidnaping and robberies—were committed by Gypsies, and very few of the offenders were caught. Gypsies are mighty difficult customers to tackle. When it was proposed in France that all nomads should have identity cards, to be checked at each stopping place, one of them said to a Matin reporter: "But I can't read, and I can't write, and I don't know how old I am, nor where I was born, and I don't remember the names of the places where my children were born, nor their ages exactly. We don't bother ourselves about such things." What can you do with people so astutely ignorant?

The Conscience of Clara.

One day when Mrs. Bell was making a neighborly call on Mrs. Ellis, the latter, in the presence of her caller, discharged her colored maid, whose obstreperousness could be borne with no longer.

A few weeks later Mrs. Bell again called on Mrs. Ellis, and to her surprise her hostess informed her that Clara was back.

The services of the maid were required by her mistress, who pressed the button in the drawing room. There was, however, no response. Finally Mrs. Ellis went out and waited on herself. While she was gone, Clara, who was acquainted with Mrs. Bell, having served in her family also, put her head in at the door and explained:

"Mis' Bell, I heard Mis' Ellis all the time, but do you recollec' the las' time you was here she discharged me, an' said she'd never have me again? I said I'd never come back, too. But here I am, so we bofe lied. That's why I'se ashamed to come in. I was ashamed for bofe of us!"

Salt on French Roads.

As a general rule, the roads in and around French towns are tarred at the commencement of the summer in order to abate the dust nuisance. It has, however, been found that tar, although excellent in the case of macadamized roads, is of little or no value where car lines exist and paved street crossings intersect the roads in every direction, as tarring cannot be carried out on stones.

The authorities, basing their action on the well-known hygrometrical properties of common salt, have made a test of its value in laying the dust. Twenty yards of roadway have been sprinkled liberally with salt and then watered freely. If the results are satisfactory, salt will be used throughout the town of Havre, it being impossible to tar the majority of the streets, as they are paved with rough stone blocks.

PEIGNOIR AS CHURCH GOWN

Beatrice Grimshaw's South Sea Island Laundress Couldn't Resist Temptation of the Garment.

It would be hard to find a spot where the subject of dress does not sway the feminine mind. To the world at large its observance causes either a great deal of pleasure or a good store of amusement. In the category of amusement may be placed the proceedings of the dusky belles described by Beatrice Grimshaw in her book, "In the Strange South Seas."

A lace-trimmed garment of mine, usually worn at night under the shelter of sheets and quilts, went to a Sunday morning church as a best dress in full daylight, on the person of the laundress intrusted with my wash. The funny side was so conspicuous that she never got the reproof she deserved.

A certain flower toque, made of poppies—a bloom unknown in the Pacific—first drove the women of the island half-distracted with excitement, then led 36 native ladies to appear simultaneously at a dance wearing excellent copies of my Paris model, done in double scarlet hibiscus from the bush.

A wedding, from which, unfortunately, I was absent, furnished the finest display of native dress that took place that year. The bride wore 14 silk dresses, not all at once, but one after another, changing her dress again and again during the reception, until the white spectators were fairly giddy.—Youth's Companion.

Jefferson Haynes, the negro janitor of the apartment house in which Dr. Knabe lived, was taken to the police headquarters to be questioned as to his whereabouts at different hours during the night and whether he saw any one about the Knabe apartment other than Dr. Knabe.

CHEAP LUNCHES FOR SCHOOLS

Board of Education at St. Louis Will Extend New Service to all Schools.

St. Louis, Oct. 25.—Pupils of four public schools, served for the first time with two and one-half cent luncheons provided by the board of education, seemed so well satisfied with the food and the arrangements made for serving it that the board will extend the service to all city schools. Each of the following sold for two and one-half cents:

Bowl of noodle soup and four crackers.

"It's a pity, isn't it?"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

For Nifty Dressers.

To the man with a small income economy is essential. Why throw away your old socks because the heels and toes are worn out? Cut off the legs, and (after washing of course) sew them to the tops of your new pair of socks. Do the same when the lower pair is worn out, and so on as long as possible. A man who becomes attached to his hosiery may, by this simple process, in time become the owner of a handsome union suit, without any extra expense.

When you cut off your beard save your whiskers. Shoulders are to be wider, and human hair, especially when curly, makes the best possible padding. Or keep friendly with your barber and get him to save his clippings for you.

Avoid aniline dyes when you wish to recolor your light spring suit for fall wear. Vegetable dyes are much softer and more delicate. Almost any of the leading brands of canned soups will give a rich, mellow tone to worsted fabrics. Tomato, mock turtle and gumbo will be the prevailing hues next season. Use hot water for cotton goods and milk for woolens. Use no salt.—"A Haberdasher," in Leslie's.

Queer Face Facts.

"Why do you photographers always photograph the left side of the face by preference?"

"Because it's the best looking," was the prompt reply. "The left side of the face is always the more regular, and it always shows least the marks of time.

"But," he continued, "if you want to bring out the real character of a face photograph the right side. There nature sets her print. There the lines are bold and unmistakable. There every defect, no less than every excellence, is stamped deep.

"The left side, where everything is softened down, for beauty. The right side, where everything is well rubbed in, for character. Those are the portrait artist's two chief rules."

Retaining Self-Respect.

There is a beautiful harmony between the good of the state and the moral freedom and dignity of the individual. Were these interests in any case discordant, were an individual ever called to serve his country by acts debasing his own mind, he ought not to waver for a moment as to the good which he should prefer. His soul he must never stain or enslave. From poverty, pain, the rack, the gibbet, he should not recoil; but for no good of others ought he to part with self-control or violate the inward law. —W. E. Channing.

MR. FARMER:

Did the recent long, dry spell hit you pretty hard—cut down your crop yield and consequently your income for the year? Will you be satisfied to continue taking chances on a good rain happening along just about the time it is badly needed?

Out in the Big Horn Basin of Wyoming the farmer of irrigated lands raised the usual "bumper" crop. His income was not reduced and he knew no worries, because "he controlled the rain" and applied the water as his crops needed it.

Don't you see the tremendous advantage he had? Wouldn't it pay you to go out with me on one of those Homeseekers' Excursions, see the country; talk to some of the farmers and get their views?

Because of my inability to persuade you to do this, it may be my fault if you don't go, but it will be your loss.

Chamber of Deputies Demands Full Report of Insurrection.

SPECIAL SESSION IS CALLED

Alarm in Capital Over Advance of Zapata—Fifty Bodies Unburied in Streets of Milpa Alta.

Mexico City, Oct. 26—Astounded by the realization that the forces of Zapata had entered the federal district, sacked a town and then stood off a detachment of the federal army, the chamber of deputies has demanded that the acting minister of war and the minister of the interior appear before that body and render full reports regarding the insurrection and measures taken for its suppression.

To consider the action of the deputies, the president called a special session of the cabinet and it was agreed the deputies should be given details of the campaign against the rebels. Not in many weeks has there been so tumultuous a session of the chamber.

Every paper in the city published long accounts of the battle of Milpa Alta, in which the Zapataists had routed the federals, killing and wounding more than half of the soldiers sent against them, and the alarm in the capital was not allayed by statements calculated to minimize the defeat.

Late in the afternoon came a report, subsequently confirmed, that another encounter between federals and rebels had occurred, this time within two miles of Xochimilco. This news increased the tension in the chamber, whose galleries had by that time been filled to their capacity.

Alta is in the hands of the government troops. Moving northward through Morelos is Gen. Caso Lopez, at the head of a considerable force. The Zapatistas who raided the federal district town and whose exact number not even the government knows, are scattered in small bands throughout the surrounding hills.

At Milpa Alta representatives of the White Cross and the Red Cross attended the wounded. In the streets of the little town some 50 bodies remain unburied.

News from Morelos, stronghold of the rebels, is that the dash into the federal district has aroused the spirits of the rebels, who have renewed with greater energy their looting. A number of haciendas and villages have been occupied and dispatches from Cuautla say the occupation of Chietla is imminent.

FARMERS TALK ABOUT SEED CORN

Institute at Soldier, Kansas, Holds Grain and Stock Judging Contest Also.

Soldier, Kan., Oct. 26.—The farmers' institute held a successful meeting here. The morning session was devoted to talks on seed corn selection and special benefits of the silo. George S. Hine of the state agricultural college was present and gave some helpful talks on these topics. The afternoon meeting commenced with a grain and stock judging contest. The business meeting which followed resulted in the re-election of all the officers, James Hall, president; S. R. Fairbanks, vice-president, W. H. Capsey, secretary and treasurer. Alfalfa was the first item of interest discussed. The road question was also touched upon by several local speakers. Dr. J. H. Burt of the agricultural college talked on the common diseases of farm animals. There was an unusually large number of exhibits of corn and the quality was excellent. The exhibits of wheat, oats, Kaffir corn and cowpeas were all good.

Emporia, Kan., Oct. 26.—The Sunny Slope Farm, three mies west, one of the famous stock farms of Kansas, comprising 965 acres, has been sold to E. W. Barker of Burlington. The sale totals 1,032½ acres and the price was said to be $69,500, though it is believed to have been much larger.

LIGHT AND AIR FOR POLITICS

Woodrow Wilson Urges Wider Use of Public Schools.

AS COMMON MEETING PLACES

Spoke on the "Need of Citizenship Organization" Before Conference on Civil and Social Development.

Madison Wis. Oct. 26.—"You know, everyone knows, that political changes of great importance are impending in this country," said Gov. Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey in an address here at the opening session of the National Conference on Civic and Social Development. "The changes are impending because the people are discussing their own problems preparatory to solving those problems for themselves."

Gov. Wilson's address was on "The Need of Citizenship Organization," and this subject he rested upon the need of using schoolhouses as centers of education for all the people, as common meeting places of recreation, of amusement, of discussion of social and political questions. He advocated the use of schools, "which, as they belong to the people should be used by the people for every legitimate purpose."

"The use of the school houses as social and civic centers," said Gov. Wilson, "is one of the forces in the breaking up of that old secretive management which has taken the place of popular government. I see in this movement for common meeting places for a common life a restoration of the genius of the American people to create, to build up, to construct, to meet new needs and emergencies as they arrive.

"Society rejuvenates itself from the bottom, rarely from the top. The American people are not guided by blind impulse. They are a people who think and whose thought and instincts are for fairness and light. The treatment needed by our modern politics is the treatment we give tuberculosis—light and air.

"I challenge the promoters of special interests," said Gov. Wilson, "not as malevolent, but as ignorant. When a man gives half a lifetime to a special business he is disqualified by ignorance to counsel what is best for society or for a city, state or nation.

"Not a few of our social and political difficulties arise out of the lack of a common understanding, out of a genuine ignorance on the part of one class or set of interests of the point of view and objects of another class or set of interests. Nothing can cure this, and mutual comprehension cannot be brought about except by intimate intercourse, by conference, by sharing a common life."

On the platform with Gov. Wilson were President Van Hise of Wisconsin university, Chief Justice Winslow of Wisconsin, Gov. Stubbs, Chancellor Strong and William Allen White of Kansas; Dean Reber of the Wisconsin university extension department and Dr. Josiah Strong, president of the Social Center association of America.

The Government Appears to Have Secured Big Loan From Unknown Source.

Washington, Oct. 26.—The Chinese government has withdrawn its request of the United States for permission to postpone payment of the current installment of the Boxer indemnity. This action is interpreted as indicating China's success in obtaining a large loan from some secret source.

Shanghai, Oct. 26.—The capture of Chang-Chou by the revolutionists is announced. From a strategic point of view, this city should prove of great value to the rebels. Its capture cuts off from Pekin all the imperial troops now gathered around Hankow and Wu Chang.

COUNTY OF MONROE }

Nancy A. Herrick, being duly sworn, deposes and says: When I was a girl I had a head of heavy, long, dark brown hair which was the envy of my friends and which attracted the attention and remarks of strangers, but as I grew older it commenced to come out. When my hair was quite thin and gray, I was induced by the many good reports I had heard of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur to try a bottle; and you can imagine my satisfaction when I found my hair was fast coming back to its natural condition. I continued to use Sage and Sulphur until my hair was as heavy, dark and smooth as when I was a girl of sixteen. It is now four years since I began using Sage and Sulphur and my hair is in splendid condition.

BEING FAT IS UNNECESSARY.

A Woman Offers Many Methods of Growing Thin.

"Women have been gaining in weight during the summer. A study of Fifth avenue of an afternoon will show this," said a woman who practices physical culture. "Perhaps the most important cause of this is the mental atitude of the women. They are willing to gain a little in weight, for they carried the matter of getting thin too far, and, being willing to gain something, they have gained too much.

"Other causes arise from the fashions. Among them can be mentioned the following:

"Sitting in a motor car makes women stout.

"The pretty shoes that are the vogue help to increase one's weight because it is impossible to walk in them.

"Hobble skirts encourage the coming of the pounds, and even if one doesn't wear a hobble skirt one wears skirts too narrow for comfortable walking.

"Afternoon teas put on flesh. It is true the English women drink tea and eat bread and butter and keep slim, but they take long walks, rain or shine, and they don't hamper themselves with shopping bags or umbrellas.

Another encourager of flesh is the short waist which, with its straight skirt, conceals the fact that a woman is stout. It makes a woman feel that she can afford to have full hips and so she eats a little more and exercises a little less.

"But by far the greater factor in the general increase in weight is the mental attitude. Last spring the women were reducing so strenuously that they impaired their health. Then they decided that it was better to be a little plumper and to have better health. As a result they began to take ice cream sodas in the middle of the day, between meals, and to indulge in afternoon naps. The result was immediately apparent in the added pounds.

"Reducing the weight is difficult for the reason that one looks at it as a great stunt which is next to the impossible, but really it is not so hard. A good way to effect it is to follow the reduction code as it is written out for the English court women. They are these:

"Begin today.

"Make your next meal light and drink nothing at all with it.

"Take a glass of hot water one hour before your dinner or your luncheon. Then don't drink again until two hours after you've eaten.

"Buy a bedroom scales. Weigh yourself night and morning. Keep a card tacked on the wall and make notes on it daily.

"Unless you eat a big dinner you will be lighter in the morning than you were when you went to bed.

"Once a week have a reduction banquet. Take nothing but hot tea and crackers. Let this be your dinner. You will not die of hunger before morning and you will waken feeling lighter and better.

"Walk one hour each day. Never mind how far you walk, but keep going for one hour. Walk half an hour going from your home. Then turn and take the other half hour to return.

"Never walk for walking's sake. It is a very trying thing to do. Make an errand for yourself. Stop marketing by phone and go personally. Do all your household errands on foot.

"The Russian women, who are proud of their white skins, have a massage which is made out of limes and soap. It sounds heroic. They cut a lime, rub it on some good toilet soap, and with this rather vigorous sponge they massage themselves. The result is a lather which they take off with hot salt and water. It may be that all skins would not stand this, but it works in St. Petersburg, where they boast that fat is not to be found in good society.

"Reduction banquets are very smart. At one there were no guests under normal. The menu was olives, clams, breast of chicken, baked potatoes and salad, with coffee minus sugar as a windup.

"There is a new German reduction exercise, the pumphandle waltz. It would not do for drawing room use, but it can be tried in the gymnasium along with the other unconventional exercises. You can wear a tight skirt for it if you prefer; for the pumphandle is an up and down step, not a swinging one.

"A believer in the new thought cult has a theory that your body obeys your mind. You say, 'I'm getting thin! I'm getting thin!' And behold you actually do get thin.

"I have tried it on myself and it worked well. At dinner time I said:

"I am getting thin, but I must not eat. I am not hungry, so why should I put food in my stomach?'

"I repeated this and I got thinner each day. For by this formula I managed to go without a meal each day. I don't know how it would have worked at all three meals, but it went well at night. I find that it is easier to go without dinner than without breakfast. Very few persons can omit luncheon.

"One of my patrons came back from Europe this fall with an increase of twenty pounds. For this woman I gave the Arden treatment. This consists of a very rigorous diet. I put her on one prune for breakfast with a big cup of strong coffee. I told her that at Arden they had been known to chew a prune twenty minutes, and it wasn't a rubber prune either.

"For dinner I told her to take chopped meat and nothing else, but all she wanted of it, and for supper some green salad without dressing. The woman who doesn't get thin on this in ten days is one who prefers to stay fat."—New York Sun.

Popular Books.

There are two books, and two books only, of their particular kind, which ran close to "Jessica's First Prayer" in the race for popularity. These two are—can you guess now? Well, they are "A Peep Behind the Scenes" and "Christy's Old Organ." Yes, of course. How easy to remember—afterward. But neither of these, popular as they were, reached the enormous sale which came in answer to "Jessica's First Prayer."—London Chronicle.

DR. KNABE'S DEATH STILL A MYSTERY

No Weapon Found and Police Believe She Was Murdered.

LET ASSASSIN INTO HER ROOM

Character Was Unblemished—Suicide Theory Held by Many Because of Her Indebtedness.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 26.—"If Dr. Helene Knabe was murdered, as appears, I am satisfied she was murdered by a person with whom she was acquainted and that she voluntarily let this person into her apartment. The theory of suicide still will not let itself be neglected."

With this statement Capt. William Holtz, chief of the detective department, summed up the result of the day's activity of the police into the circumstances of the death of Dr. Helene Knabe, former state bacteriologist, whose throat was slashed while she lay on her bed sometime Monday night.

"I cannot see anything but murder in this case," said Dr. C. O. Durham, coroner of the county. "The instrument of death was not found and circumstances indicating suicide appear to me negligible."

Capt. Holtz declared he did not intend to reflect upon the character of Dr. Knabe in saying he believed she knew her murderer, if she was murdered.

"Dr. Knabe's reputation was unblemished," said he, "and she lectured to young women and men on the necessity of social purity as well as on physical culture and hygiene. But there are a number of possible motives for her murder. It is certain that robbery was not one of them and physicians have decided that personal attack was not committed.

Two cigars were found in the apartment where Dr. Knabe lived alone. Miss McPherson told detectives she distinctly remembered Dr. Knabe had brought the cigars home from a banquet of a medical society, as a joke.

"There is this to be said for the suicide theory," said Capt. Holtz, after the examination of Miss Knabe and Miss McPherson, "Dr. Knabe was a trained gymnast and she could have put up a powerful resistance to an assailant. There were no signs of a struggle on the bed or in the bedroom.

"This does not account for the knife being missing, but there have been many cases in which friends of a suicide have sought, by removing evidence, to prevent the fact of a suicide appearing. And many of Dr. Knabe's friends were in the flat before the police arrived. We shall continue to question Dr. Knabe's friends and acquaintances in the hope of finding a lead. So far we have not discovered a motive for murder and there is only a slight one upon which to base the suicide theory."

PRESIDENT TO CUT THE CHEESE

Exhibit at Dairy Show, Largest Ever Made, to Be Sampled by Mr. Taft.

Chicago, Oct. 26.—One of the most interesting attractions in the National Dairy show, which opened here today, is the largest cheese ever manufactured. It is big enough to make 200,000 cheese sandwiches, and on Monday President Taft will cut and sample this immense product of the dairy. Mr. Taft also will deliver an address at the show, on agriculture and conservation.

The big cheese weighs six tons and stands higher than a man, and its cost was nearly $6,000. To manufacture it 1,200 model dairies did the milking of 8,000 cows at the same time, and the 32 cheese factories which manufactured the curd had to follow the same process to make the curd uniform. Other attractions at the show are numerous and include all sorts of dairy machinery and equipment and an excellent display of dairy cattle.

Marzyck is Found Again.

Peoria, Ill., Oct. 26.—Following an investigation begun Monday night, the Peoria police have become convinced that Charles Marzyck, the ex-convict suspected of the murder of the Showman family at Ellsworth, Kan., is being protected by ex-convicts in a rendezvous on the river bank south of this city.

After Two-Cent Fare Laws.

Chicago, Oct. 26.—Railroads connected with the Central Passenger association are planning to attack the 2-cent fare laws in Ohio, Indiana and Illinois. The decision of Judge Sanborn in the Minnesota rate case, it is understood, will be made the basis of the attack.

Topeka May Lose Aero Club.

Atchison, Kan., Oct. 26.—Atchison may take from Topeka the headquarters of the Western Aero association. The balloonmen are having considerable trouble in Topeka because of objections of property owners near the field from which flights are made.

CAPITAL FULL OF POLITICS

INTERESTED IN APPROACHING ELECTIONS.

Results in Scattered Sections Watched Because of Bearing on National Results.

Washington, Oct. 26.—With the arrival of the advance guard of congressmen for the winter season and the return from vacations of administration officials, attention at the capital is centering on the off-year elections. Interest is keen because of the bearing which results in scattered sections this fall may have on the national elections next year.

In two weeks from now governors and legislators will be chosen in a few of the states and there will be some congressional and local elections of decided importance. Governors are to be elected in Kentucky, Maryland, Massachusetts, Mississippi, Rhode Island and Virginia. A red-hot municipal campaign is in progress in Philadelphia, which carries some features of national import. In New York City, where judicial positions are the principal offices at stake, matters have taken on more than usual off-year concern because of the intensified bitterness of the old fight against Tammany under the rule of "Boss" Murphy and the professed return to the Democratic fold of W. R. Hearst, who has declared war on Murphy "from the inside."

The Massachusetts election is involved more than any other with the national campaign of 1912. Eugene N. Foss, whose success constituted the straw that pointed the way to Democratic control of the House of Representatives when he was elected to fill a vacancy from a Republican district several months before the 1910 landslide, and who subsequently left his seat in Congress to become the Democratic governor of the old Bay State, is a candidate for re-election. His Republican opponent is the present lieutenant governor, Louis A. Frothingham.

DUE TO ANARCHY, SAYS BURNS

Detective Believes Unions Had Little or Nothing to Do With Times Explosion.

New York, Oct. 26.—Saying he was tired of being lied about, traduced, maligned and misrepresented, Detective William J. Burns, who caused the arrest of J. J. and J. B. McNamara, the latter of whom is now on trial in Los Angeles on the charge of dynamiting the plant of Harrison Gray Otis' paper, the Los Angeles Times, for the first time made clear his belief that labor unions were little, if at all, concerned in the alleged actions of the accused men. According to Burns, anarchy, not labor unionism, has been the impelling motive.

Burns was at the Grand Central Station waiting for a train for the West. He had just received news that Eugene V. Debs had accused him of hounding and continually following the trail of the many times candidate for President on the Socialist ticket.

"Hounding him? Nonsense!" Burns cried. "He knows my movements as well as heknows his own, and he is aware of the fact that I only came here to make an address at Columbia University. Hounding him? Only the other day he called for volunteers to assassinate me, and announced that he had received in repy the names of two hundred who were willing to try.

SAYS HE HELPED CLEAN WICHITA

Sheriff Says "Band Wagon" Methods Are What Spoiled Some of the Raids.

Wichita, Kan., Oct. 26.—Sheriff Millhaubt has denied the statement made in Kansas City by C. W. Trickett that he had not given the state officers his hearty co-operation in making raids on joints in this city.

"I always gave the governor and his men every assistance I could in making raids," the sheriff said. "Their band wagon methods were such as to attract the attention of the joint-keepers and they surmised their raids were contemplated and planted their liquor."

Would Seat Contestants.

Jefferson City, Mo., Oct. 26.—In an argument before the supreme court in support of his demand to see the poll books in the state contests in order to determine how certain voters voted, Judge William C. Marshall suggested that the supreme court should throw out all of the votes cast in St. Louis for both parties at the election in 1910. If this should be done, the contestants, Gant, Case and Timmonds, would be seated.
